

THIS WEEK PRESENTED BY RIDGELINE TITLE & ESCROW · SAMPLE SPONSOR

The Chattanooga Move

Homes, neighborhoods & the business of living in the Scenic City

ISSUE 002 · JUNE 2026 · Free, sponsor-supported · A Brief Scout Media newsletter

Two weeks in and we're already hearing from you — keep the neighborhood requests coming. Today: what actually sold last week, a first-timer's guide to buying here from out of state, and a NorthShore walk-through. As always, sponsors are labeled and editorial isn't for sale.

WHAT SOLD · LAST 7 DAYS · SAMPLE DATA

Area	Type	Sold	Days
[Highland Park]	2BR bungalow	$XXX,000	XX
[NorthShore]	3BR cottage	$XXX,000	XX
[East Brainerd]	4BR new build	$XXX,000	XX

The pattern to watch: [one sentence on what the week's closings say — e.g., where homes are moving fast vs. sitting, drawn from live MLS].

BUYING HERE FROM AWAY — A FIRST-TIMER'S FIELD GUIDE

Five things that surprise out-of-state buyers

1. The mountains change everything about a commute. "15 minutes away" up Signal or Lookout is not 15 minutes in January. Drive it at rush hour before you buy.
2. Tennessee has no state income tax — a real factor in your true cost of living vs. where you're leaving. Budget the difference into your price range.
3. Flood zones and old fill. Some pockets near the river and creeks carry flood insurance you didn't plan for. Ask early; it moves the math.
4. School zones don't follow neighborhood names. Verify the exact zoned schools for the actual address, not the area.
5. Older homes, older systems. Knob-and-tube, original HVAC, and foundation quirks are common in the charming historic stock — which is why issue 002's sponsor tip is about inspections.

PRO TIP · SPONSORED BY SCENIC HOME INSPECTIONS (SAMPLE PLACEMENT)

On a pre-1950 Chattanooga home, spend your inspection dollars on the three things that actually cost five figures: the foundation, the roof, and the electrical panel. A cosmetic punch-list is negotiable; a cracked footing or a Federal Pacific panel is a price renegotiation. [\[Sponsor-written, labeled; editorial stays independent.\]](#)

NEIGHBORHOOD SPOTLIGHT

NorthShore — walk to dinner, paddle before work

Across the river from downtown, NorthShore is the closest Chattanooga gets to "park your car and forget it." Coolidge Park, the river, the Walnut Street Bridge (we're all counting the days until it reopens), and a walkable strip of restaurants and shops are the whole pitch. Homes run from updated cottages on the flats to bigger places climbing toward Stringer's Ridge. It's the neighborhood people move to when they want energy and walkability without downtown's high-rise feel.

WHO IT SUITS

Walkers, paddlers, dine-out couples, anyone who wants downtown energy a bridge away.

THE TRADE-OFFS

Premium per square foot; parking and weekend crowds; the most competitive bidding in town.

Price character (fill at publish): pull current NorthShore medians from MLS; note the spread between the flats and the ridge.

FEATURED LISTING · SPONSORED (SAMPLE PLACEMENT)

[Address · price · beds/baths] — "[Agent's one-line pitch.]" [Photo · open-house time · agent contact · CTA]

RATE WATCH · ILLUSTRATIVE

30-yr fixed: X.XX% ([▲ / ▼] vs. last issue) · 15-yr: X.XX%. [One sentence on the move and what it does to a typical $XXX,000 Chattanooga payment — fresh each issue from Freddie Mac's weekly survey.]

The Chattanooga Move

Free because sponsors pay — and we label every placement. The opposite model from our ad-free sister publication, The Scenic City Insider. Both from Brief Scout Media.

Forward to a friend who's house-hunting →
Subscribe · Advertise / sponsor a slot · Submit a listing